

CTC hearings bring new evidence to light

If officials of Canadian National Railways anticipated an easy time when they first made application to abandon the rail line between Haliburton and Lindsay, the hearings last week proved how wrong that assessment could be.

Speaker after speaker, representing municipalities, companies and individual people wanting to ensure the CN service was not lost without a fight stepped forward to the witness table to voice their support for the retention of the line. The number of individuals and groups wanting to be heard was so great, in fact, that the J.G.B. Thompson, who represented the Canadian Transport commission at the hearing, ordered the meeting to sit into the night Wednesday and all day Thursday. The original schedule had called for just a single day's sitting in Haliburton.

The two days of testimony here followed a one day sitting in Lindsay Tuesday. At that time representatives of municipal government, business and individuals from the Victoria County area were heard.

The hearing was, in some ways, similar to a trial, CN presented its reasons for wanting to abandon the line, with the largest part of its case resting on the financial losses incurred in the last five years of operation. In response to this position, those in favour of retaining the service presented their arguments in support. After each witness had presented his or her case, the lawyer for the railway, lawyers representing other groups, or the Commissioner could ask questions to clarify a point, or, as happened in a number of instances, in an effort to discredit the testimony offered in support of retaining the rail line.

Commissioner Thompson kept a tight rein on the proceedings. To the casual observer the former lawyer would often appear to be lost in thought as he shuffled through papers and notes on his desk, while lawyers and witnesses continued the testimony. However, if the line of questioning or the evidence being presented strayed too far off track, he was quick to make his presence felt, chiding lawyers and gently nudging the witnesses back to the subject at hand.

Despite the court-like procedures and the seriousness of the consequences of the hearing for this area, the hearings were not stiff and formal. Indeed, the commissioner was quick to bring a human touch to the proceedings. At one point he reminisced with a local lumber dealer who had just finished the difficulty he had unloading lumber in Kinmount or Lindsay and transporting it by truck to his store, about his first job, hand loading a box car with lumber at 20 cents an hour. "It was no easy task," Thompson told the audience with a chuckle.

As is usually the case, the commissioner did not make a decision once the hearing reached its conclusion late Thursday afternoon. As a matter of fact, even though Commissioner Thompson has been the only member of the CTC to hear all the evidence first hand, a decision will be made by all the members of the railway section of the commission.

Thompson is responsible for preparing a report on the evidence he heard through the three days of hearings. Included will be his recommendations which his fellow commissioners are free to accept, question or reject.

Riding the white water of the Gull River

It's official!

After years of hard work and fund-raising efforts, the Minden Wild Water Preserve was officially opened last Saturday morning, as a prelude to the Provincial Canoe and Kayak Championships held here Sunday.

The preserve, located on the Gull River below the Horseshoe Lake dam, was formed through the efforts of Roger Parsons, manager of the project, aided by the Ontario Wild Water Association.

The opening culminated nearly three years of work for the Association, Parsons, and several volunteers. Though the site itself is not fully completed, the development of it will be done in several stages which will be governed by the availability of volunteer help and funding. A $50,000 training centre building is planned above the dam which will provide accommodation for 24 people, boat and equipment storage and a facility

Decision reached by three to two vote...

Resolution rescinded, cottagers angry

By a vote of three to two, Anson, Hindon and Minden council decided to again change the minimum lot size allowed on a subdivision on Soyers Lake, by rescinding a resolution of July 23rd.

The issue was deferred until last Wednesday for council to reconsider a motion passed at the July 23rd meeting recommending that the number of lots on the subdivision be reduced from 17 to 11, or 100 foot lot sizes be increased to minimum sizes of 150 feet.

Both representatives of the developers and members of the Soyers Lake Property Owner's Association argued their cases before council on Wednesday. But after both sides presented their views, council decided to go ahead with the 100 foot lot sizes, with Reeve Sinc Nesbitt and councillor Len Lonsberry registering 'nay' votes.

With the vote, council has already changed its mind twice on the issue. Originally, they agreed with the subdivision plan that limited lot sizes to 100 feet. Council then changed its mind on the frontage and number of lots allowed after a presentation by Lou McCorriston, president of the lake's property owner's association. He told council at the July 23rd meeting that the lake would become over-crowded and the quality of the water would deteriorate. Council agreed with McCorriston's arguments, and placed a frontage limit on each lot of 150 feet.

But the recent reconsideration means the municipality has agreed to stick with the original resolution of the 100 foot limit. "My client gave you the sketches of the subdivision some time ago," argued Don Crawford, who represented the subdivider at Wednesday's meeting. "Council has approved the draft plan...and there's been no objection until now."

Mr. Crawford said "these people (the cottagers) have the right to object under a proper forum - the Ontario Municipal Board." He maintained that the development is a "viable development" that "won't hurt the lake." Ultimate decision on the matter will rest with the OMB, at which time both sides will present their views on the matter.

Mr. Crawford insisted that council, if they decided not to revert the minimum lot size to 100 feet, would be changing the rules in the middle of the game," since the municipality's comprehensive zoning by-law states each lot only requires 100 feet.

"I can't see that we can go against our own by-law", Deputy-reeve Doug Pritchard commented.

Mr. McCorriston, who attended the meeting with about 25 other property owners, countered the Couchiching Real Estate Development stand, repeating his argument of the July 23rd meeting maintaining that the development proposes "an excessive amount of frontage" to water surface. He insisted that Soyers Lake is "different" from other lakes that would be covered under the municipality's by-law. "Are we going to allow the balance of the remaining land to be developed at 100 foot lots?", asked Mr. McCorriston. "We're simply asking you to reaffirm your passing of July 23rd (which limited the lots to 150 feet)"

Mr. McCorriston presented a petition with 187 signatures representing 100 properties around the lake calling for any new developments on the lake to have a 200 foot minimum frontage. The petition will be presented at the OMB hearing, he said.

Original objector to the subdivision, Mr. Tate, told council that the OMB "will not view your judgement of the issue other than that you have (made judgement)."

He said it was essential for council to "bring your minds to bear" on what is reasonable and appropriate, and not be

Council to investigate possibility of buying plant

Anson, Hindon and Minden council has decided to look into the possibility of purchasing Minden's sewage treatment operation.

Council discussed the proposal with a representative from the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation at their regular meeting last Wednesday. The spokesman told council that debentures would have to be provided for the eventual purchase, and specifics about the proposal could be obtained by contacting the Ministry of the Environment.

Council agreed to send a letter to the Minister of Environment requesting a meeting to discuss the possibility of the plant's purchase.

FROM THE CHAMBER

By Bob Stinson

If the proposal of the C.N.R. did nothing else, it did force a detailed look at ourselves in both Haliburton and Victoria counties to see where we are going. Three days of presentations did much to discredit the C.N.R.'s statement that "there are no known natural resources which might be commercially developed to provide increased rail traffic". The very first presentation on Tuesday by a St. Josephs Explorations Ltd. advised of activity in the Victoria forest just south of us that could result in zinc mining in the near future. Continued exploration of this resource will only take place if a railroad remains in place, since it would not be viable otherwise.

Subsequent presentations provided many more glimpses of development that may be taking place in the coming years involving both mineral and forest resources. A far more optimistic picture developed than the one we are used to hearing - providing of course we have a railroad. It became rather obvious that the fight to retain it was certainly worthwhile (if there was ever any real doubt in anyone's mind).

Thanks to Ontario government

If the Commission decides, as we think they will, to disallow the C.N.R.'s proposal to abandon the railroad a major portion of the credit must go to the Provincial Government and their lawyer, Mr. Burtnick, who was in attendance. Fortunately for us the Province has become aware and concerned with the trend of the railroads to abandon branch lines. The Haliburton-Victoria line, and the

Reeve Sinc Nesbitt pointed out that he refuses "to be any part of 100 foot lots. I've suggested to the subdivider that the lots be 150 feet and I'm not changing my mind."

The original motion calling for the 150 foot limitation was officially rescinded by resolution, with Councillors Stu Brandon, Lyle McKnight and Doug Pritchard registering 'yea' votes, and Reeve Nesbitt and Councillor Len Lonsberry registering nay votes.

A date for the OMB hearing has yet to be set.

Marmora to Bancroft line that has also had an abandonment proposal placed on it, are just the tip of the iceberg. The C.N.R. readily admitted in cross-examination by the Province, that the rest of the branch lines in south central Ontario were candidates for abandonment. The vast hole that remained without rail service was dubbed the "Burtnick Triangle" during the hearing. If this is allowed to happen it will not only hurt the communities involved, it will hurt Ontario as a whole, and they have therefore

Hopes of Minden BIA rekindled

Thanks to a petition circulated among several of Minden's businessmen, hopes for a Business Improvement Area (B.I.A.) may have been revived.

The petition, started by Jack Brezina, publisher of The Times, opposes the rejection of the formation of an improvement area. Following a meeting in August of Minden's merchants, a petition objecting to a number of aspects of the B.I.A. was presented to Anson, Hindon and Minden council. Since more than one third of the businesses within the proposed B.I.A. were represented on the petition, hopes seemed to be dashed that the Ontario Municipal Board would approve the formation of the organization.

The merchants were concerned about whether they should have a say in how much money would be borrowed to support the B.I.A. and where the funds were to be spent.

But after apparent confusion and problems surfaced at the August 20 meeting, and several reassurances were given by entered the fight.

Mr. Burtnick was in a class by himself at the hearing. He asked all the right questions and on a number of occasions had the C.N. witness contradicting himself. He was very knowledgeable in the subject matter and was to provide arguments on facts that our own people were not conversant in. In conclusion he provided an excellent, convincing summation which could be the key to a positive decision. He requested the Commission to not only refuse the proposal to abandon the line, but also that they instruct the C.N. to reinstate service to Haliburton at once. This was, of course, based on the strong evidence that there was no cause to cut off this service in the first place. It was a good logical argument and appeared to be well received by the Chairman.

Thanks Mr. Burtnick -- and thanks Ontario.

On October 11 the Monmouth Recreation Board will hold their annual and region."

The merchants are requesting that council submit the petition to the Ontario Municipal Board "as an indication of the support the B.I.A. has among Minden merchants." They also requested that the OMB hold a local meeting before rejecting the B.I.A. by-law passed by council.

The last request on the petition calls for the OMB to consider the option of reducing the area of the B.I.A. "in an effort to find a consensus of merchants who support the B.I.A...." and to select a time and date for a hearing "that would be convenient to as many merchants as possible."

Council received the petition with no discussion taking place.

Editorial

The now-historical Canadian Transport Commission hearings held in Haliburton Village last week has constituted the most significant and far-reaching event seen in this county in some time. It is also an event in which business people and residents of Haliburton County can be particularly proud.

The reasons for this, as any person who attended the hearings can attest, are many. The arguments presented by those who submitted briefs objecting to C.N.'s abandonment of the Haliburton subdivision rail line were well done. Nearly all of the briefs outlined sound arguments in favour of preserving the railway, and practically none used sentimental arguments or emotional pleas as a crutch.

Key to these presentations was a fact brought out by Dysart's hired engineer, Robert Matillo of Site Investigation Services of Peterborough, who testified that he felt the site where the CNR claimed a washout had taken place would be safe for a train to pass. He also stated that "very little repair work" would be needed at the location if the train speed and weight limits currently in use for the line were observed. C.N. estimated that repairs to the area of the washout would be $75,000. Matillo refuted that figure by saying that repairs, when required, would only cost $10-$15,000. And Matillo's qualifications, it was brought out in the hearings, far exceeded that of the inspecting diver employed by C.N. at the washout.

The washout evidence was overwhelmingly in favour of those wanting to preserve the line. However, as C.N.'s lawyer stressed, the bottom line was in the costs.

Over a period of five years, C.N. showed indisputable figures showing the line had lost about $850,000. It appeared as though numbers alone could have won the argument.

But these amounts were tested as well. It was adamantly suggested by a lawyer representing the Town of Lindsay that C.N. had not actively solicited business in the area, and certainly could have done more "legwork" to ensure the profitability of the line. Specific accounts which the Lindsay lawyer cited showed that some businesses had not either been billed for freight service, or delays took place that caused confusion in the billing process.

Adding to this growing amount of evidence in favour of the objector's arguments were briefs presented by various area merchants, all of whom claimed they could make use of rail service if it were available. Ironically, the only element of the witnesses' testimony that seemed to harm their argument was something not commonly a factor in hearings such as this - honesty.

Those who took the stand could easily have "stretched" the truth in favour of their own argument. No one did. In particular, Bob Vick, Reeve of Snowdon Township and Mac McGillvary, County Warden, pervaded an honesty that was striking not only to those present, but to the chairman as well. He later said he was "impressed" with this aspect of the hearings.

A substantial number of briefs were handed forward from organizations such as the Municipality of Dysart et al, the Haliburton County Economic Development Commission, Ontario Hydro, Lutterworth Township and the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce, to name the most significant. All these opposed the rail line's abandonment.

But perhaps the real boon came when a lawyer representing the province of Ontario gave a brilliant and concise summation of the province's position on the issue.

Predicting a "renaissance" for the railroads in the 1980's, he vehemently opposed the closing of the line since plans to abandon this and other lines throughout the region would leave a large section of central Ontario without rail service. Such a move, he stressed, would hinder and cripple any form of economic development, and confound provincial attempts to map out an economic strategy of these areas.

His summation capped nearly three days of exhaustive and detailed work by dozens of people united in a cause to halt the rail line's abandonment. It was excellent work, work that deserves praise of all residents in the county. It was work that may yet help preserve an economic future for this region's people.

Whatever the outcome of the hearings - the decision of which should be reached in about a month - those who stood up for what they believed at the CTC hearings in Haliburton deserve the thanks of us all.

A quiet day on the Gull River

Letters

Editor:

In June we decided that a one-day per week summer camp should be helpful to the children with special learning disabilities in Haliburton County. Now having completed a six-week programme for some of these children (ages 8 - 12 years) from the elementary schools in Haliburton and Minden (as well as a child from Cardiff), we know that such a camp is essential.

The aim of the camp programme was to assist each child with maintaining his level of development, as achieved in the previous school year, throughout the summer holidays. We believe that the purpose of this summer's initial effort was successfully accomplished. In due time, we hope to get specific feed-back from both parents and teachers as to the extent which the programme may have benefitted each child.

The success of the programme is directly attributable to the tremendous co-operation of the children, the parents and the volunteers. Twenty-four children were registered. For most days, every child was present. Each child was involved in all aspects of the programme. No behaviour problems were experienced. Besides seeing that their child was in attendance, certain parents remained on occasions to assist in the programme. Certain volunteers were able to help with specific events in the day. Most regular volunteers spent the complete day (6-7 hours) throughout the camp period.

We should like to give special recognition, and to express our sincerest appreciation to the following persons who performed so ably as group leaders: Susan Austen, Jim Milne, Nancy Pillsworth, Paula Solway, Sharon Blair, Wendy Armstrong, and Shirley Warder. The craft activities were in accordance to the daily camp theme (namely: Get-to-know-you-day, Pioneer-day, Indian days, and outer-space day). We are grateful to Shirley Rydman, Bonnie Fitzgerald, Yvonne Beaucage, Karen Thompson, Margie Newton, Helen Brown, and Hans Roschar, each of whom assisted us in special craft areas. Immediately following lunch Nancy Picard, with her accordion, did a fine job in leading the sing-songs. In her absence, John Fitzgerald and Mildred Reber helped with the singing.

Lunch-time and swimming were undoubtedly special events each day. Although each group was responsible to plan and to prepare one lunch, during the camping period, we are particularly thankful to Freda, John and David Hulbig, for their tremendous efforts in this area as well as in other aspects of the programme. The lunches were just terrific! Toos Reid (and on one occasion John Fitzgerald), was an invaluable asset in directing and supervising the swimming activities. Not only were the children enjoying the water but they appeared to be gaining in confidence in swimming and canoeing skills.

The cost of the camp was rather marginal due to the direct and indirect contributions from various community sources. The Haliburton County Chapter of the O.A.C.L.D. sponsored the camp and provided $50 to get it started. Browndale Administration donated its complete facilities at the Tall Pines School, Carnarvon. We are grateful to the neighbouring residents who permitted us to use their beach on Twelve Mile Lake. The Carnarvon Fruit Market provided most food items at cut-rate prices; and Yvonne Beaucage donated items of leather. We sincerely appreciate, too, the excellent feature story which this newspaper did on the camp.

We believe that all the children of Haliburton County who are known to have learning disabilities should have the opportunity to experience a summer camp that is geared to meet their special needs. Although such a camp should continue to depend on community co-operation still, in order to improve and to expand its expertise, it will be necessary to obtain a special government grant to pay the salaries of key personnel and cover the costs of special facility requirements.

The children who are needing this special service are neither mentally retarded nor physically handicapped. Usually they are fairly bright children who have specific difficulties which may handicap them in academics, social or physical activities. Without appropriate attention and correction, they will continue to experience frustration which can result in serious academic, emotional and social problems in the home, the school, and the community at large. With this awareness, we consider that the special needs of children with learning disabilities should be attended to throughout the whole year.

Editor and Parents:

The students and staff of our school, like many people from all parts of Canada, have been deeply touched by the Terry Fox "Marathon of Hope". His courage and determination, to not only beat cancer himself, but also to contribute to cancer research, is infectious.

We want to help! But, to us Terry Fox symbolizes sacrifice. He sacrificed his own time and comfort to help other Canadians. Whatever amount of money each of us contributes, a dime, half a dollar or several dollars, we think we should earn it. We could work at home or for a neighbour and sacrifice some of our free time to wash the dishes for a week, rake leaves, do baby-sitting, etc., in the same spirit that Terry ran in the hot sun or heavy winds or rain.

When we make a contribution at school, our name and the work we did will be recorded. The individual amount each of us contributes will not be posted but our total school contribution will be shown as it grows each day. We have set a deadline of September 30 to have our work completed and our contribution made.

If this idea is appealing to you, you could help at home by giving us encouragement to choose a task and complete it.

to eventually house a local canoe and kayak club.

On hand at Saturday's official opening were John Eakins, M.P.P. for Victoria-Haliburton, Sinc Nesbitt, Reeve of the Municipality of Anson, Hindon and Minden, Bob Stinson, executive director of the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce, Paul Yakaduski, Parliamentary Assistant to the Minister of Natural Resources, John Maxwell, Assistant Deputy Minister of the Ministry of Industry and Tourism, and representatives from the Ontario Wild Water Association, the Orillia Light and Power Commission and the Trent-Severn Waterway. Bill Scott, M.P. for Victoria-Haliburton, also attended.

Following the unveiling of the sign designating the area as a preserve, and closing remarks by Roger Parsons, paddlers Claudia Kerckhoff and Deiter Poenn, two of Canada's best female and male paddlers, launched their boats to officially mark the beginning of the Provincial Canoe and Kayak Championships and the opening of the course.

Competitions got underway Sunday morning, despite intermittent rain. Crowds lined the banks of the Gull River rapids, straining to see the canoeists and kayakers slalom down the 800 metre length of whitewater.

Both Kerckhoff and Poenn turned in the best performances in their respective divisions. Kerckhoff, competing in the K1 Women's Novice division made the course in 147:92 seconds, nearly halving the time of her nearest rival, Debb Martin with 343:37. Allison Drought finished third with 365:72. (These scores included penalty seconds which are added on when a competitor strikes or misses a 'gate' on the course).

Poenn dominated the K1 Expert division as well. The Newmarket native completed the course in 208:80 seconds, 11 seconds faster than Garry Barton of Hamilton. Dave Whittingham of St. Bernard placed third with 232:72. Poenn, who is rated among the top 30 kayakers in the world, commented after the competitions of the quality of the Gull River run.

"I was pleasantly surprised," he said. "The course is certainly of excellent quality...maybe one of the best around."

Don Brinklow, a national judge involved in the competitions, said the course can probably be rated as the "best anywhere". A judge at the National Competitions held last year at Jasper, he said the quality of competition and general excellence of last weekend's meet was "as good" as the Jasper meet.

The Canadian national competitions of the Canadian Wild Water Association is scheduled to take place here next summer. But planners and organizers of the Gull River Project are aiming at something bigger for the future: the International Canoe and Kayak Championships.

Following is a list of the remaining final results of the Provincial Canoe and Kayak Championships.

Letters

Editor:

I could not believe my eyes when I read Arthur Porter's statement in the Globe and Mail newspaper on September 8th.

His turn-about attitude towards nuclear power makes me wonder about his motivation. He has the audacity to say that he has studied nuclear power from a wholistic perspective when he has omitted the most important factor of all, the health factor.

Radiation, in all its forms, is dangerous and as the wife of a radiologist who contracted thyroid cancer while still in his thirties, I am only too well aware of the ravages of radiation. It is a prime mutagen, and cause of cancer.

Mr. Porter should have included a visit to the cancer hospital in Toronto in his research, realising, without doubt, that some of the people with birth defects and cancer are like that because radiation was the trigger. Radiation is radiation, is radiation. The radiation produced and emitted by Hydro is equally as damaging as that produced from a nuclear bomb, X-rays, etc. Only the type and amount varies.

Indeed, medical authorities are at this time concerned about possible adverse effects of low-level radiation exposure. When the medical profession is seeking ways to reduce radiation exposure from X-rays it is contradictory that Arthur Porter is taking a stance in favour of increasing possible exposure to this pollutant. I do regard radiation as a form of pollution, and I certainly do not agree that nuclear generation is environmentally safe. Already in Bancroft we have some 25 acres of radioactive waste lying around the landscape. In the open environment around Elliot Lake there are some 80 million tons contaminating creeks, streams and entire watersheds. If Mr. Porter had any insight at all, he would only have to imagine the face of this earth sometime in the future, and he would know that on a long-term basis anything nuclear is the beginning of the end for man and beast.

It is easy, Mr. Porter, to put on blinkers in order to bail Ontario out of the energy crunch. Like me, you probably won't be around to see the long term effects of this type of pollution. You make no mention of Carbon 14 or Tritium which are emitted during nuclear generation, or of radiation dust particles in the atmosphere resultant of the refining and milling of ore. Let me ask you one question. Do you consider it even ethical for Ontario to have made, and now to apparently fortify, a commitment to nuclear power prior to a satisfactory storage method for plutonium and other radioactive wastes having been found?

One disadvantage from my point of view is that I cannot supply you with figures to back up my feelings. Although I possess mountains of research showing, without doubt, that radiation is the most dangerous form of pollution, because one cannot feel and see it, it is impossible to supply health statistics on any grand scale in order to prove its harm. There are many causes of cancer, and radiation is only one of them causing leukemia, bone cancers, thyroid and lung cancers amongst others.

Rachel Carson a long time ago spoke of Strontium 90 in her book "Silent Spring." Perhaps you should read this book, and maybe some of the medical research I have accumulated. You will be surprised to find some very eminent people in opposition to your newfound viewpoint. You may be an opportunist, but there are some of us who are humanitarians, and I for one, will fight your tunnel vision perspective to the bitter end for health's sake.

The cost of producing nuclear power is prohibitive, and that is not taking into account the projected cost of the spent fuel disposal allowing for inflation over a quarter of a million years. Ontario may well sell its surplus to the U.S. However, along with this must come a commitment from the U.S. to store all the resultant waste, including mining waste and spent fuel bundles in the United States. Unless, of course, Ontario is successful in switching over to breeder reactors, the most dangerous type of reactors in existence.

I cannot help but wonder if an Acid Rain Pollution Control trade-off isn't at the seat of all this? Don't get me wrong. Acid rain is a prime concern of our group. We have been actively involved with acid rain for 2 1/2 years, pioneering many projects. We were the instigators of the Ministry of Environment's upcoming lime-stoning experiments in Haliburton County.

Mr. Porter has omitted the fact also that the man in the street cannot afford to pay his hydro bills now, so is it possible that the province may be investing blindly in the future? For in the future, the province may have no buyers for nuclear energy as the man in the street seeks alternative and cheaper forms. Where I live, in Minden, a return to the wood-burning stove (and many never ceased using this energy form) is extremely popular.

Concerning biomass energy that Mr. Porter alludes to. Here in Ontario we would apparently never have to resort to using foodcrops as fuel because we have potentially more than enough forest products and garbage to produce energy equivalent to Hydro's nuclear production. If we add to our waste an increase in nuclear waste, we may as well hang up a sign "Ontario, the wasteland."

Ratepayers to meet

A meeting has been called of the Anson, Hindon and Minden ratepayer's group for Tuesday, September 23.

J.O. Jackson, organizer of the group has confirmed the date. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Township's council chambers.

The group has been formed, according to Jackson, due to the concern he has that residents of Anson, Hindon and Minden are paying a greater proportion of their taxes to support county-wide administrations, such as the Board of Education and County council, than residents in other municipalities.

"Before we go any further..." he said, "I want to know if there are enough people interested in forming the group." Any persons interested are invited to attend.

Tough new laws will deter trespassing.

How we're helping to protect you and your property.

For nearly 150 years Ontario has had a law making it an offence to enter property where entry is prohibited. But now new legislation—The Trespass to Property Act—has toughened up the law to protect your rights.

Trespassers can now be fined up to $1,000. In addition, they can be ordered to pay for damages they have caused.

An important part of the legislation designates premises where entry is prohibited without notice. These include your gardens, orchards, vineyards, land under cultivation, woodlots and fenced land.

Where notice must be given to prohibit entry, you may use red markings on gates, trees or fences. Yellow markings may be used to caution that only certain activities may be permissible. It is the responsibility of the visitor to find out what you permit.

LAND USED FOR RECREATION
In the past, there was a great deal of confusion regarding your responsibility to people you allow on your land. Consequently many farmers and rural landholders would not allow recreational activities on their properties.

Now another new act—The Occupiers' Liability Act—reduces your responsibility. In a nutshell, the law assumes that those who take their recreation on most rural land without paying a fee will take care for their own safety.

A special system has been devised to allow you to easily indicate which activities you will allow on your property. A sign naming or graphically representing an activity (for example, hiking) indicates that the activity is permitted. The same kind of sign with an oblique stroke through it means that you prohibit the activity.

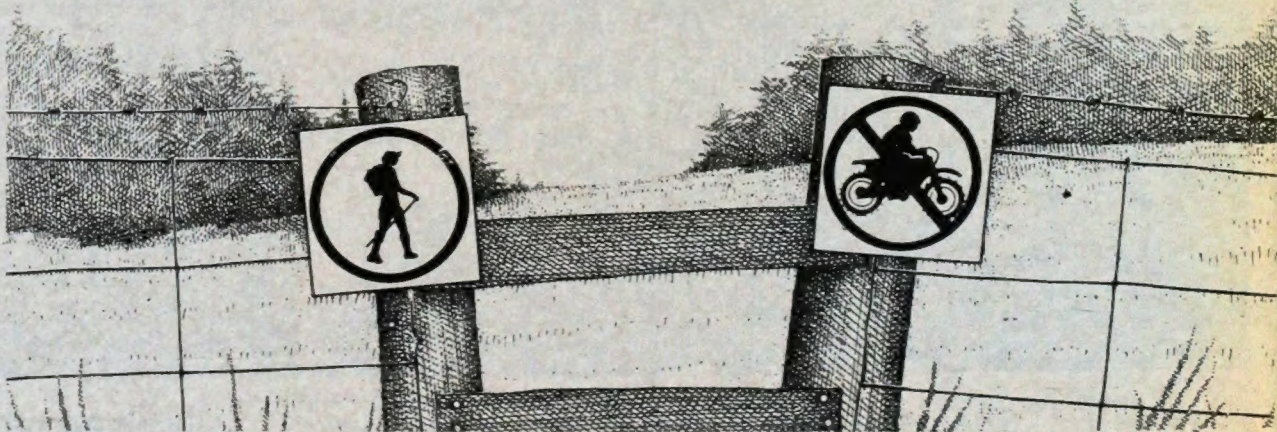

These new laws are part of a continuing program to streamline our legislation. By clarifying your rights, they afford you greater protection from trespass and also reduce your liability when you make land available for recreational purposes.

CTC hearings: a cross-section

The Canadian Transport Commission hearings in Haliburton Village and Lindsay last week heard testimony from a large number of sources on the advisability of retaining or closing the rail line between the two communities.

The hearing was ordered after Canadian National Railways made a formal application to abandon the line. The application was opposed by various groups and individuals at both ends of the track as well as from communities along the 55.5 mile route.

The following report highlights the major points made by representatives of both sides of the argument.

Canadian National Railways requested the closing of the line for the following reasons:

- The rail line has been a consistent money loser for the railways with losses during the past five years recorded at: 1975 - $181,843; 1976 - $172,614; 1977 - $151,546; 1978 - $193,174; 1979 - $196,013.

- The railway indicated a substantial drop in rail traffic on the line during those years, with carloads in and out of the Haliburton station dropping during the five years.

- A major rail customer, Superior Propane near Fenelon Falls, had switched to highway transport to move their commodity in bulk. A letter from the company, indicating they did not object to the CN application, was filed with the commission.

- In April 1978 a washout at the base of an embankment north of Kinmount resulted in the closure of the line between that community and Haliburton. The washout occurred where the Burnt River runs past the rail line. CN claimed initially that repair of the washout would cost $75,000. During the hearing this figure was changed to $40,000.

- The railway claimed the track and bed from Lindsay to Haliburton was only in "fair" condition. It said that the rehabilitation of the line would cost $603,000 with yearly maintenance fees of $84,000.

The CN claimed there would be no substantial impact on the communities or industry along the rail line. They pointed out that there are no employees working directly on the line and that a section gang out of Lindsay is assigned to the three lines that lead from that community.

The following is a brief summary of the main points made by those appearing before the CTC hearing favouring the retention of the CNR rail line from Lindsay to Haliburton Village.

- A number of area merchants appeared before the commission including lumber yard operators, bulk fuel dealers, quarry and rock operators and lumber mill operators. All claimed they could make use of rail service if it was available. In particular, the retail outlets suggested they could buy lumber cheaper in (train) carload lots than they could by the truckload.

- A spokesman for G.W. Martin Lumber Limited, Herman Poppe, told the commission that his firm is actively exploring the possibility of shipping chips to European markets. He expected his firm to be able to produce 400 to 600 tons of green chips a day within the coming year and that much of this would be destined for overseas. He said shipping by truck was bound to become more expensive as fuel prices increased.

- An engineer hired by the Dysart et al Township said he felt the site where the CNR claimed a washout had taken place would be safe for a train to pass. Robert Matillo of Site

Investigation Services of Peterborough, said very little repair work would be needed at the location if the train speed and weight limits currently in use for the line were observed. He also noted that repairs, when required, would only cost, in his estimation, $10,000 to $15,000.

- A spokesman for a number of area camps, Wayne Perkins of Camp Wanakita, told the hearing that the camps might be induced to use the rail service to transport campers to and from the area. He said this option would become more attractive with the increasing cost of gasoline for buses.

- Ed. Skelcher of Lindsay, one two individuals responsible for the idea of a steam train excursion proposal which is currently under study, expressed concern that if the railway was allowed to abandon the line, the property would revert to the adjoining landowners. Such an outcome would eliminate any possibility of the steam train proposal proceeding. He requested that the commission reserve any final decision until a group studying the feasibility of the excursion proposal has had an opportunity to report on its findings.

- Chairman of the Haliburton County Economic Development Commission, Glen Hodgson, told the meeting that his group was actively studying a number of developments for the county

Glen Hodgson presented EDC brief

In any event, the decision, once it is reached, will be one made by the railway section of the Canadian Transport Commission. That decision could be rendered in two months, or it could take longer.

In the meantime, those individuals who expressed their concern about the future of the rail line between Haliburton and Lindsay will have to wait while the CTC considers the application from CN.

Ministry completes review

The Ministry of Housing has completed a review of Anson, Hindon and Minden's 13-year old comprehensive zoning by-law 14-67. Comments made by the Ministry were released at council's regular meeting last Wednesday.

Pat Vanini, spokesperson with the Ministry, told council that since various changes have occurred locally since the by-law's inception 13 years ago, "we feel the bylaw needs more than housekeeping and consolidation, it needs thorough review." She said the most significant change is the adoption of the Haliburton County Development Strategy.

Mrs. Vanini outlined major advantages and disadvantages to having the bylaw amended, or establishing a new by-law. She said it would be more to council's advantage to draft a new by-law. This, she said, "would be slightly more expensive, but the Township would probably end up with a better product."

She provided council with eight major issues in the present by-law "that provides concern for us as a Ministry."

Included in the suggestions are the inclusion of Rural Estate Residential and Rural Areas in the zoning by-law. "The lot standards perhaps for the rural zone should be altered to distinguish it from the Estate Residential distinction."

The report also pointed out that though certain areas in the municipality have been designated as wetlands and bottomlands in the development strategy, they are not zoned as such in the by-law. Similarly, Resource Priority areas are not identified in the by-law schedule, but are designated in the county's development strategy.

Also according to the strategy, the townsite of Minden should have low and medium density residential uses, but by-law 14-67 has only an R (Residential) zone for the townsite. The Ministry suggested distinguishing between these through separate categories and establish standards for medium density residential, to be developed on full sewer and water services.

The policies in the strategy, the report pointed out, state that new permanent residential development "should front on an improved public road, maintained year round..." Mrs. Vanini said this also should be included in by-law 14-67.

Though zones and provisions are included in the by-law for Rural Retreat and Mobile Homes, no "areas have apparently been zoned for these uses" and there are overlaps between the two zonings, making this aspect of the by-law "difficult to utilize and administer."

The report said that there "seems to be an abundance of commercial zones..." These can be reduced, said the report, to avoid overlapping and improve the clarity of the document. The strategy calls for two principles in commercial land use: "those of a central business district and highway commercial nature," and recreational commercial, though this is not included in the strategy.

Since the strategy does not include shoreline policies, the report stated that the Ministry "is not prepared to approve subdivisions for permanent residential use," but rather seasonal residential uses.

"These would be the type of things if you wanted to undergo a major change in your by-law," Mrs. Vanini pointed out to council. She added the Ministry could, if requested, prepare a detailed "terms of reference which outlines the purpose of the project and other contractual types of things."

Council agreed to wait until after the municipal election to continue with any further proposals on the amendment issue.

Constables, tracking dog search for suspects

Seven Constables, a Minden Detachment Corporal and a tracking dog assisted in the arrest of two men last Friday who have been charged with 12 incidents of theft, breaking and enter, and possession of stolen property in the Lake Kashagawigamog area.

As the result of the theft of a boat and motor valued at $1750 from the cottage of Robert Beggs of Downsview, Minden Constable Mike Maher began an investigation that eventually led to the arrest of the two suspects.

Constable Maher discovered that Beggs' storage shed was broken into and $35 worth of frozen food was stolen, of which $25 worth was later recovered.

Further investigation uncovered a 20-foot cruiser owned by John Lovisotto on Kashagawigamog Lake. The boat was damaged by an earlier attempt to alter the ignition wires to start the vessel.

Upon further checking around the scene of the thefts, Constable Maher found that an attempt was made to enter Raymond Noble's cottage on Kashagawigamog Lake, and that Noble's 16 foot Runabout boat also was damaged by attempting to alter the ignition wiring.

Later in the day, seven Constables and a Corporal from Minden assisted by Constable Paul MacNeil and tracking dog Scout from District Headquarters attended the area and a search of the bush and roads in the area of Kashagawigamog and Soyers Lake was conducted.

The two suspects were found in a cottage.

Robert Francis McKinley, 23, of Chatham, and Robert Charles Boudreau, 18, of Ottawa have been charged with three counts of attempt to break and enter, seven charges of break, enter and theft, one charge of possession of stolen property and a charge of theft over $200. Further charges are pending.

Town pays fire bill

A bill originally sent to the Ontario Provincial Police by the Minden Fire Department for time incurred while standing by was absorbed by Anson, Hindon and Minden council.

About three weeks ago, Minden O.P.P. had to remove flammable and volatile chemicals from their office, after finding it apparently unused in a forest. The police called upon the fire department to stand-by while the chemicals were being removed from the headquarters, in case of an emergency.

In a letter to Anson, Hindon and Minden council, the detachment stated they "failed to see why our department was billed". The bill covered the time incurred and was for $125. "This is a very one-sided arrangement," said the letter, since the work between the police and the fire department has become a "hand and glove relationship", with the police attending fires on a regular basis.

"The men (fire department) certainly have to be paid," said councillor Len Lonsberry. "The question is do we pay or do the O.P.P.?"

Councillor Stu Brandon commented that this could be precedent-setting as far as future payments between fire and police departments. "If the municipality doesn't pay," he said, "the whole question of co-operation hangs in the balance. I'd like to think that the departments would function well together regardless who pays, but I think we should pay if the whole question of co-operation is threatened."

Council agreed to pay the full amount to the fire department.

Several briefs presented at CTC hearing

and that rail service could be important to their future. He stressed the fuel savings in transporting goods and people by rail as opposed to highways and air.

Dysart Reeve Murray Feary commented, "Rail is one asset we have to help us achieve economic security." He claimed that without it the township would suffer. He also suggested that the county was about to receive funding under the DREE program and predicted tremendous growth in the forest industry.

A spokesman for Ontario Hydro told the commission that the rail line formed a vital link for bringing transformers to their Minden substation. He said there are often lengthy delays in getting the necessary permission to transport the heavy transformers over the highway and the rail line would be an important facility if one of the two transformers had to be replaced.

It was suggested that Canadian National had not actively solicited business in the area and it was felt the railway could have done more "legwork" to ensure the profitability of the line.

A brief tabled by Haliburton Highlands

Chamber of Commerce secretary-manager Bob Stinson, stressed the potential for tourist development the line could have. He referred to the steam locomotive proposal and the possibility of bringing cottagers and vacationers to the area by train from Toronto and other southern points.

The question was asked whether it is safe for propane in bulk quantities to be shipped by highways.

A lawyer for the Ontario government predicted there would be a "Renaissance" for the railroad in the 1980's. He noted that plans to abandon other rail lines in the area would leave a large section of central Ontario without rail service. He said the request to maintain the line was not a major one in the overall scheme of CNR operations.

He also suggested that the strategy of the railway to "pick-off" small branch lines one-by-one in various parts of the province is one that needs close examination. He said an overall inquiry into the situation should be carried out to determine the minimum rail network required to maintain the economic health of the province.

Hustlers take Tri-County ball title

The Minden Tri-County Rockcliffe Hustlers have beaten Woodville three games straight in the best of five series to win the Tri-County Men's League Championship.

Minden, in the last three games, allowed only one run against, while picking up eight runs against the opposition.

The first game saw the Hustlers edge Woodville 2-1, with R. Boucher coming through with a homerun in the sixth inning. Brian Mulholland knocked in Boucher in the third inning for Minden's first run of the game. The lone Woodville marker came in the fourth inning.

The Hustlers handily shut-out the opposition in game two, played last Wednesday, by a score of 4-0. Minden's opening run came in the first inning when Boucher again slammed a homerun to open the scoring. His single in the second inning knocked in Barry Shaw for number two.

The scoring slackened off until the sixth inning, when Shaw punched a homerun to knock in Bernie Nicholls, who had previously notched a single. That put the game too far out of reach for Woodville, game ended 4-0.

The Hustlers again shut-out the visitors in game three by a score of 2-0, to take the championship.

Both runs for Minden came in the second inning when Shaw hit a single. Brian Mulholland brought him home when he nailed a home run.

Despite a threatening situation toward the end of the game, which could have easily netted Woodville two runs, strong fielding by Minden held back any runs. With Woodville holding a runner on first and third bases, and only one out, a pop fly was hit by one of the Woodville batters.

Craig Stamp caught the fly, and quickly relayed the ball to home plate, where the third base runner was advancing. Catcher Bobby Johnson made a fine catch, and tagged the runner out for the double play.

After the game, trophies were presented to the coaches of each squad.

Following is a list of the 1980 Tri-County League Champions Minden Rockcliffe Hustlers.

Neil Burke, coach, Bob Johnson, Rick Boucher, Craig Stamp, Barry Shaw, Jack Snell, Dwight Sisson, Brian Mulholland, Jim Keetch, Larry Kent, Mark Schell, and Bernie Nicholls.

Haliburton captures title

The Haliburton ladies softball team has captured the Haliburton County Softball League Championship, after defeating Minden 10-8 last Monday night.

Though Minden's Wendy Gough had a strong night on the mound for Minden, it just wasn't enough to hold the Haliburton ladies back from eventual victory.

Highlight of the game came when Joan Paul hit a homerun for the Haliburton squad in the fourth inning.

The win was given to Haliburton pitcher Andrea Burk, while Joan McKay took the loss for Minden.

The game culminated over three months of competitive play among community ball teams around Haliburton County.

The Redmen rebuild for fall

The Redmen are back!

The defending Kawartha 'A' champion Haliburton Highlands Secondary School football team has been practising since school has commenced, and despite losing some of their best players from graduation, they hope to hold a few surprises for the opposition this year.

The squad is scheduled to hold their first game of the season tomorrow afternoon against Fenelon Falls. Their home opener will be played against Brock High School on September 26.

The Redmen will be pressing into service many of the Junior Varsity players from last year, most of whom will provide the backbone of the team's defense and offense. Included among the rookies will be experienced front-liners from last year's senior Redmen, but key point-getters such as Ed Roberts, Tim and Steve Davies won't be helping out this year.

Essentially, coaches Gary Brohman and Bob Collier have described this year's Redmen version as a "building team." Their goal will be to simply hold on to the title they have earned for the last three straight years.

"We haven't got a big team this year," said coach Brohman, "so we'll be emphasizing the building of the players."

The team will be playing in a different division this year, that is, 'AA'. And that means more competitive ball than the Redmen are normally used to.

Returning this year to help the team out on the offensive line is Roger Hicks, tackle, Casey Cox, guard, John Fedeski, centre, Jamie Rogers, fullback, Brent Moxam, full back, Dave Pratt, halfback, and Ron Yake will assume the team's quarterbacking responsibilities.

Handling the defensive side of things, returning players will include Rich Choy, Ted Pilcher, Tony Scheffee, Rob Metcalf, Rick Beeney, Terry Crowe, Mike Hatkoski and Terry Allore.

"Even though this looks like a lot of returnees," said Brohman, "the bulk of the team is lacking in depth. But from the look of things, they're a really outstanding set of kids."

He said the team now has a "sound nucleus" and should do well during the upcoming season. Their goal is to make the playoffs in the Kawartha West finals.

"From there, we'll have to see where the chips fall," said Brohman.

Trent Severn News

Haliburton Reservoir Lake storage declined 5.5% from September 2 to September 8 when it was 70.3% of maximum. This amount is, however, still some .14% higher than the 10 year average.

Evaporation and continuing to run maximum flows from the lake has Lake Simcoe - Couchiching showing a decline in the week preceding September 12 of about 8 centimetres, now only 7 centimetres above the rule curve level for this date.

The Kawartha Lakes levels remained fairly stable over the past week, with an average flow in the Otonabee River at Peterborough of 52 cubic metres per second.

Minden Racquet Club to open September 26

Two expert ping-pong players from Lindsay will give a demonstration of the intricacies involved in the sport. They will be attending from Lindsay, and will give the opening volleys.

We were surprised and pleased to read in Saturday Toronto Star that MINDEN is on the map for Fall Colour Tours and is in the right location. Not much colour as yet, guess we need that touch of frost.

Sincere sympathy goes to the family and friends of the late Alvin Gostlin and Andy Sisson who passed away since last week.

There is some dissention in our Canadian Post Office system, wonder if they will settle quickly or have a full-scale strike. The Courier Services are in our area with a listing in the Yellow Pages of your phone book and also Travelways Buses give good service on packages, as we use these at Christmas time.

Florence and Phil Robinson visited Mrs. Noble Dunn in Lindsay one day last week.

Just a note, that students wishing to use Encyclopedia at Minen Library will have to do their research there, as these valuable books do not circulate now. This is since one was lost last winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Thorpe and Yolande of Brampton spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hewitt.

There was a Stork Shower at the home of Mrs. Rick Kinsman Saturday afternoon for Lynn Cox, and she received lovely and useful gifts.

Fall activities are now starting as many Bowling Leagues are in their first week of that sport at Carnarvon Lanes.

Missed mentioning that congrats are going to Sue and Brian Sisson on the arrival of their baby girl, also Clare and Reg Evely on the birth of twin sons.

A Friend
No matter where your path may turn
Your welfare is his chief concern.
No matter what your dream may be
He prays your triumph soon to see.
There is no wish your tongue can tell

But what it is your friend's as well.
The life of him who has a friend
Is double-guarded to the end.
E.A. Guest

There was a Shower of gifts on Monday night at the home of the Ted Pipes in honour of baby Brandi Hewson who received the grand baby gifts.

We really know that Fall is here when we hear that Lindsay Fair is on and the next weekend will be Bobcaygeon Fair. We would like to see our own fair later in the summer, as not much competition in the vegetables or grain sections.

Congrats to both Men's and Ladies Softball team who won their finals last night.

Two registrations on the list, Brownies and Guides is Thursday, Sept. 18 at Municipal Building upstairs from 7 - 8 or call 488-2623 which is a local number, and also Nursery School registration is on September 23 at St. Paul's Parish Hall at 8 or call 286-1616 or 286-1066.

Now the fall is here check the store hours, as some close on Wednesday afternoon, and then you would not have a drive for nothing.

Don't forget if you have some interesting news items please call Monday or earlier as we turn this in Monday afternoons. A lovely weekend if you like rain. Cheerio until next time.

Lines from Lutterworth
by Jean Lacey

Hi! Finally everything is back to normal? Well at least back to a daily routine.

There are still cottagers coming up every weekend, at least until Thanksgiving anyway.

Mr. Nuetzel and his son, Joe, were up again trying to get everything ship-shape so they won't lose anymore equipment, they've had a lot stolen in the spring.

Frank Miles, Sr. and Jr. were up to their cottage on the weekend.

Congratulations to Reg and Claire Evely on the arrival of twin boys. They'll sure have their hands full now.

The Dunsford's were away over the weekend to a wedding. All had a good time.

Mrs. Mary Oster is still in bed, recuperating from her fall. She is coming along quite nicely now.

Congratulations and best wishes on Major and Mrs. Lewis' 40th wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Wright have been away in Toronto visiting with relatives over the weekend.

Deputy Reeve Major Lewis represented Lutterworth Township at the meetings held in Lindsay and Haliburton regarding the Canadian National Railway abandonment of the railway line between Kinmount and Haliburton.

One of the children who attended the Lutterworth Library's craft and storytime and the puppet show, whose picture was in the paper, is also in the Christmas Wish Book.

Hint of the Week
Soak up spills before they happen - To eliminate messy spills when children are using paint or glue, cut an opening in the centre of a sponge and insert the container. The sponge keeps the container from tipping over and absorbs any overflow.

In this world, it is not what we take up, but what we give up, that makes up rich.

Bye for now. Take it easy. God bless till next time.

The week of activities began at Hyland Crest with a vigorous session at fun and fitness. Wilbert Sisson was the winner at darts and Harry Robinson got an excellent score of 90 in the Roll the Ball game. Everyone enjoyed kicking the ball to the tune of Scottish music.

In the afternoon the ladies went to crafts to work on items for the Christmas Bazaar. At present, Mrs. Isabella Eastman, who has lost her sight, is knitting an afghan. It will be a masterpiece when she has it completed.

Tuesday morning, Rev. Everett Wicks of the Gospel Church held service in the Chapel. His message was very inspiring. Agnes Taylor accompanied us on the organ for the singing of some favorite gospel hymns.

Later, several residents gathered in the lounge for a game of Bingo. Our thanks to Joan Kernohan and Anne Burke for taking time to help the residents with their cards.

The ladies of the Kinmount Legion brought a lunch consisting of tasty sandwiches and a variety of goodies for the Thursday Tea Party. The residents always look forward to the good food every Thursday brought by various groups in the county.

Friday afternoon, we were pleased to have Ray Jenkins drop in and play a few tunes on the

We are busy preparing for the Fun Day which will be held in a couple of weeks. There will be several contests which the residents will be participating in and judging. Prizes will be awarded to the winning contestants. The residents are looking forward to the day of fun with great anticipation.

New laws govern trespass and liability in rural areas

Signs like these can now be used to indicate to the public what activities if any, a landowner will allow (or prohibit) on his property. The signs are part of a new legislative package approved by the Ontario government earlier this year and which came into effect Monday.

The Ontario Legislature has recently passed legislation designed to increase the protection of private property and facilitate control of activities on private property by the owners and occupiers of that property. The new legislation came into effect September 8, 1980.

The Occupiers' Liability Act governs and clarifies the liability an owner or occupier bears towards those who enter his land. The Trespass to Property Act substantially increases the protection provided owners or occupiers from trespass to their land.

The Acts are intended not only to provide increased protection for owners but also to encourage owners to permit controlled access to the parts of their property suitable for recreational activities.

Under The Trespass to Property Act, convicted trespassers may be fined up to $1,000. In addition, the owner may recover up to $1,000 in compensation for damages. Lastly, the trespasser may also be assessed reasonable costs of his or her prosecution.

Owners bear a basic duty of care to provide for the reasonable safety of entrants to their property. There are, however, a number of exceptions which, it is hoped, will encourage owners to permit controlled recreational use of their property. For instance, an owner is relieved of the basic duty to provide for the reasonable safety of entrants and their property under a number of circumstances. Under the new laws, non-paying recreational entrants on most rural property are deemed to take the environment as they find it. The legislation assumes that those who take their recreation without paying a fee will provide for their own safety.

Persons who enter the property of another with the intent to commit a criminal act do not receive the basic duty of care from the owner.

Under no circumstances may an owner create hazards or danger to entrants or act toward an entrant in a way which a reasonable person would know to be likely to cause harm to another.

Entrants who wish the protection of a higher duty of care are free to pursue their recreational activities in places where a fee is paid for entry or activity. Such places of business, because they have collected an entry or activity fee, bear a higher duty of care for the safety of entrants than do rural owners who receive no fee.

If the owner of rural property receives payment from the government, or a government agency, the recipient does not lose the benefits of the entrant's assumption of risk. Similarly, if a rural owner receives honorary membership in a recreational association or a courtesy, such as an invitation to a "thank-you" dinner and dance, that owner will not lose the benefit of the assumption of risk by a non-paying recreational entrant. Such government or non-profit recreational association benefits are not considered to constitute an entry or activity fee, which, in the case of businesses, requires a higher duty of care.

As well as strengthening the owner's position towards trespassers, the new Acts are designed to facilitate greater recreational use of private land. In addition to the reduced duty of care towards non-paying recreational entrants and the presumption that the entrants take the environment as they find it, the Acts have created new marking systems to facilitate the owner's control of his land.

The Acts provide two marking systems, one general, the other, specific.

The general system, which relies entirely on colour coding, uses red to prohibit any entry whatsoever and yellow to indicate that some controlled entry is permitted. The markings, of an approved size, may be made, placed or spray-painted on trees, fence posts or immovable rocks at points of entry to the property. Under the legislation, it is the responsibility of a potential entrant, when faced with yellow markings, to find the owner and enquire of him what specific activities he will permit.

The second system uses visual representations of outdoors activities such as hiking, fishing and hunting. This system has been devised to allow an owner to easily indicate what activities he will allow on his property. A sign naming or graphically representing an activity (for example, hiking) indicates that activity and only that activity is permitted. The same kind of sign with an oblique stroke through it means that activity and only that activity is prohibited.

Essentially, the Acts have been designed to encourage more rural landowners to allow controlled recreational use of their land. In addition to the simplifications and clarifications for owners, the legislation is intended to deter and punish those irresponsible few who, by refusing to recognize the property rights of others, jeopardize increased recreational opportunities for the many responsible people who wish to enjoy Ontario's natural beauty in approved and permitted ways.

Lillian Dickson to speak here

Lillian Dickson, a missionary described as "a living legend" will be speaking at the Minden Gospel Church on Wednesday, September 24.

According to a press release announcing Dickson's planned meeting in Minden, she has "become a living legend in our time, the personification of pluck and perseverance against heavy odds, the undaunted heroine in many an encounter with the elements on dangerous mountain trails, with hostile tribal chiefs and former head-hunters..."

As a missionary wife, she began her activities forty years ago to rescue boys out of prison, lepers from suicidal depression, tuberculosis victims, and girls about to be sold into prostitution.

Her original mission in Taiwan has grown into 60 projects in preaching, medical work, hospitals, clinics, prison-visitation, schools and orphanages. She has also begun missions in Malaysia, Indonesia, Papua-New Guinea, Irian Jaya and the Solomon Islands.

She will be bringing news of the latest "outreach" of her tribal missionaries who have left their homes to preach the gospel in Borneo, of the new trade-schools she is operating in Papua and of the Christian Teachers' Training College in Kalimantan.

The public is invited to attend.
